To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to take this opportunity to highly recommend Colleen Kelly as a speaker and clinician at the 2010 World Equestrian Games.

Colleen has been a primary clinician at every Equine Extravaganza for the past four years (Virginia and North Carolina) and is one of our most popular presenters. Her depth of knowledge and proficiency in a wide range of multi-discipline equestrian fundamentals makes her an ideal speaker in that she is able to adapt her topics to the event's needs as well as address a wide range of audience skill and interest levels. She is as interesting and effective with an audience of beginners as she is with world class competitors and as compelling in the classroom as she is in the arena.

Colleen's knowledge and expertise as a clinician is exceptional. In her presentations Colleen is energetic, amusing, versatile, and captivating. She keeps the audience engaged and holds their attention with her informative, witty, and motivating demonstrations.

In a few short years of presenting in the United States Colleen has developed a vast and energetic following and her clinics throughout the US are packed.

As a clinician Colleen is very accommodating and easy to work with and will make the job of program director a piece of cake. If another clinician has to cancel, the adaptable and resourceful Colleen can step in and save the day.

I believe Colleen would be an excellent addition to the 2010 WEG educational program.
